

National Certification Commission for Acupuncture and Oriental Medicine (NCCAOM®)
Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ)
Information about Certification Route 8: for California Licensed Acupuncturists

Updated 07/26/2021

Table of Contents

Introduction:3

Q1: NEW AS OF 07/27/2020: What are the requirements to become NCCAOM Board-Certified in Oriental Medicine through Route 8: for California Licensed Acupuncturists?.....3

Q2: I took the CALE exam after January 12, 2020, why can't I apply for NCCAOM Oriental Medicine Certification through the CA Route?4

Q3: I took the CALE on or before January 12, 2020 and have continued to maintain an active CA license but, I do not currently live in California. May I apply under the CA Route?.....5

Q4: I meet the eligibility requirements for the CA Route, and I am an active Diplomate of Acupuncture (NCCAOM)®. I want to become NCCAOM Certified in Oriental Medicine through the CA Route so that I do not have to take the NCCAOM Chinese Herbology Certification exam. How do I proceed?5

Q5: I meet the eligibility requirements for the Route for CA Licensed Acupuncturists, and I have an active, open application for NCCAOM certification under a different route. I have begun the exam process (or have not yet taken any exams). I want to change my application to the CA Route, so I do not have to finish taking (or take any of) the exams. What do I need to do?6

Q6: I meet the eligibility requirements for the CA Route, and I was previously certified by the NCCAOM; however, my certification is now terminated. May I use the CA Route to reinstate my certification?6

Q7: I took the CALE exam on or before January 12, 2020; however, I currently hold an inactive CA license because I do not live or practice in California. May I apply under the CA Route?7

Q8: I want to apply now. When will the CA Route application be available online?7

Q9: Once I apply, how long do I have to complete the eligibility requirements before my application expires?7

Q10: After I satisfy all requirements of CA Route and become an NCCAOM National Board-Certified Acupuncturist, what else do I need to do to maintain my NCCAOM certification?8

Q11: When I renew my California Acupuncture License will I still have to recertify with the NCCAOM to maintain my NCCAOM certification?8

Q12: Will I be able to become licensed in other states if I become NCCAOM Board-Certified through Route 8 for California Licensed Acupuncturists?8

Q13: If I become certified through the NCCAOM CA Route why can't I go to any other state that requires NCCAOM certification and/or exams and get a license to practice?.....9

Q14: Why don't the CA Route applicants have to take any NCCAOM exams to become NCCAOM certified in Oriental Medicine? 10

Q15: Why is the CA Route open only to CA licensed Acupuncturists and not licensed acupuncturists in other states? 11

Q16: What are the benefits of becoming NCCAOM certified? 11

Introduction:

On February 1, 2019, the NCCAOM opened a new temporary route to certification called - Route 8: for California Licensed Acupuncturists. This is a time-limited route that will close on September 30, 2021. Applicants who meet all eligibility requirements of Route 8 will be granted NCCAOM Oriental Medicine Certification without the requirement of taking the NCCAOM examinations. Please read below for a compilation of frequently asked questions and answers about the new, time-limited Route for California Licensed Acupuncturists. Any questions or comments should be directed to caroute@thenccaom.org.

NEW AS OF 12/29/2020: Due to the difficult circumstances created by the coronavirus pandemic in the state of California in recent days, the NCCAOM has extended the application deadline for the NCCAOM Certification Route for California Licensed Acupuncturist from December 31, 2020 to September 30, 2021 to allow more time for eligible candidates to apply for this route.

Q1: NEW AS OF 07/27/2020: What are the requirements to become NCCAOM Board-Certified in Oriental Medicine through Route 8: for California Licensed Acupuncturists?

A1: The NCCAOM with approval from the National Commission for Certifying Agencies \(NCCA\) has updated the qualifying date for CA licensed acupuncturists to be eligible for the NCCAOM Route for CA Licensed Acupuncturists. Applicants wishing to become NCCAOM Board-Certified in Oriental Medicine through Route 8 must:

1. Submit an NCCAOM online CA Route application for Oriental Medicine certification and pay the application fee of $750.
 - a. Route 8 application submission concludes on September 30, 2021.
2. Document holding, at the time of application, an active California Acupuncture license that is in good standing.
3. Pass the California Acupuncture Licensing Exam (CALE) on or before January 12, 2020.
4. Request proof from the California Acupuncture Board (CAB) of having completed the CALE on or before January 12, 2020, if the California Acupuncture license was obtained after January 12, 2020. All proof of passing the CALE must be sent electronically to the NCCAOM directly from the California Acupuncture Board.

5. Submit verification of an original Council of Colleges for Acupuncture and Herbal Medicine (CCAHM) CNT course completed within 6 years of the California Route application submission date or submit verification of the original CCAHM CNT course and completion of the CCAHM CNT Review course. All certification of completion for the original CNT course and the CNT review course must be sent to the NCCAOM electronically directly from the CNT course provider - Council of Colleges for Acupuncture and Herbal Medicine (CCAHM).

Note: NCCAOM Certified Diplomate applicants for CA Licensed Acupuncturists holding an active NCCAOM Certification in Acupuncture or Chinese Herbology, are eligible for an application reduced fee of $400; also all candidates with an open, non-expired application on file submitted through a different Route of Eligibility, must contact NCCAOM for an application fee reduction adjustment via email caroute@thenccaom.org.

PLEASE NOTE: The Application for CA Licensed Acupuncturists is valid for one year from the application submission date or until December 31, 2021, whichever comes first. For assistance email: caroute@thenccaom.org.

Q2: I took the CALE exam after January 12, 2020, why can't I apply for NCCAOM Oriental Medicine Certification through the CA Route?

A2: The CA Route is not open to practitioners who passed the CALE exam after January 12, 2020, because that is the last valid date of the NCCAOM certification exams, based on the NCCAOM 2013 Job Analysis. The NCCAOM national certification exams based on the NCCAOM 2013 Job Analysis were used by the CA Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA) Office of Professional Examination Services (OPES) to evaluate the suitability of the NCCAOM modular certification examinations as part of the requirements for licensure as an acupuncturist in California. On January

13, 2020, the NCCAOM offered, for the first time, the National certification exams based on the new 2017 Job Analysis. (See Q13 for additional information.)

All three of the NCCAOM's certification programs are accredited by the National Commission for Certifying Agencies \(NCCA\). To maintain their accreditation status with the NCCA, the NCCAOM was required to provide evidence of the same process, of the certification (i.e. initial licensing) and recertification (i.e. re-licensure) requirements from the California Acupuncture Board compared to the NCCAOM's certification and recertification requirements for Oriental Medicine. NCCAOM submitted evidence of both initial and re-licensure requirements in order for this route to be approved by the NCCA. NCCAOM had to show that the candidates from CA had the same eligibility requirements to include a Clean Needle Technique Course (current) and that the requirements for CEU in CA are the same (CA requires 50 CEUs every 2 years and NCCAOM requires 60 CEUs (PDAs) every 4 years). The NCCAOM's proposal was approved by the NCCA Board.

Q3: I took the CALE on or before January 12, 2020 and have continued to maintain an active CA license but, I do not currently live in California. May I apply under the CA Route?

A3: Yes, you are eligible. The key is the evidence of holding an active CA license that is free and clear at the time of application and completing the same process for certification and recertification as required for initial CA licensure and re-licensure. (See Q7 if your CA license is currently inactive.)

Q4: I meet the eligibility requirements for the CA Route, and I am an active Diplomat of Acupuncture (NCCAOM)®. I want to become NCCAOM Certified in Oriental Medicine through the CA Route so that I do not have to take the NCCAOM Chinese Herbology Certification exam. How do I proceed?

A4: You will need to complete the online application for CA Licensed Acupuncturists and pay the $400 application fee specifically set for NCCAOM Diplomates in Acupuncture converting through the CA Route. You will also need to submit all eligibility requirements for the CA Route that have not already been met. Please see Q12 for the answer concerning state portability when achieving NCCAOM certification through the CA Route, as some states require the NCCAOM Chinese Herbology exam to obtain a license to practice. You must verify licensure requirements with each state in which you want to practice.

Q5: I meet the eligibility requirements for the Route for CA Licensed Acupuncturists, and I have an active, open application for NCCAOM certification under a different route. I have begun the exam process (or have not yet taken any exams). I want to change my application to the CA Route, so I do not have to finish taking (or take any of) the exams. What do I need to do?

A5: You will need to meet all eligibility requirements for the CA Route that have not already been submitted and maintained as part of your NCCAOM certification file. All candidates with an open non-expired application on file submitted through a different Route of Eligibility, must contact NCCAOM for an application fee adjustment via email caroute@thenccaom.org. After you have contacted NCCAOM by email you will need to complete the online application for the CA Route and pay the CA Route adjusted application fee. If you have completed the certification exams and become certified through the CA Route, the exams you completed will remain valid. If you choose to practice outside the state of California your completed exams will be sent to a state, upon your request, for State Certification and Exam Verification, which is part of state's licensure process. Please see Q12 for the answer concerning state portability when achieving NCCAOM certification through Route 8 For California Licensed Acupuncturists. This route may or may not allow successful CA Route applicants who become NCCAOM Diplomates to apply for licensure in other states. You must verify licensure requirements with each state in which you want to practice.

Q6: I meet the eligibility requirements for the CA Route, and I was previously certified by the NCCAOM; however, my certification is now terminated. May I use the CA Route to reinstate my certification?

A6: Yes, you will need to meet all eligibility requirements for the CA Route. You will also need to complete the online application for CA Licensed Acupuncturists and pay the $750 application fee. Once certified in Oriental Medicine the certification exams passed at the time of initial certification will be revalidated. Please note, if you were initially certified in Acupuncture with the NCCAOM and are now certified in Oriental Medicine, not having taken the NCCAOM Chinese Herbology Certification exam, you will want to refer to Q12 for the answer concerning state portability when achieving NCCAOM certification through the CA Route as some states require the NCCAOM Chinese Herbology exam to obtain a license to practice. It is your responsibility to verify licensure requirements with each state in which you want to practice before you apply for this route.

Q7: I took the CALE exam on or before January 12, 2020; however, I currently hold an inactive CA license because I do not live or practice in California. May I apply under the CA Route?

A7: Yes, you are eligible once you return your CA license to active status. The NCCAOM also requires that your re-activated license be clear and valid, and free of any holds.

Q8: I want to apply now. When will the CA Route application be available online?

A8: The application is now available online from the NCCAOM website (www.nccaom.org). Route 8 For California Licensed Acupuncturists was implemented, on February 1, 2019 and the eligibility requirements updated on July 27, 2020. The NCCAOM will continue to update this FAQ as more information becomes available and will also announce the additional information on the NCCAOM website

Q9: Once I apply, how long do I have to complete the eligibility requirements before my application expires?

A9: The CA Route application expires one year from the date of submission or on December 31, 2021, whichever comes first. All certification requirements must be met within the valid application period or a new application must be submitted when the original application expires. Please Note: The CA Route will close on September 30, 2021. Applicants with open, non-expired application on file as of September 30, 2021, will have time until December 31, 2021 to complete all requirements for NCCAOM certification via CA Route. Any applicant who has not submitted all requirements as of December 31, 2021, will not be able to complete the certification process. Application fees are non-refundable.

Q10: After I satisfy all requirements of CA Route and become an NCCAOM National Board-Certified Acupuncturist, what else do I need to do to maintain my NCCAOM certification?

A10: Once NCCAOM certification is achieved, Diplomates must recertify with the NCCAOM every four (4) years and meet all recertification requirements in place at that time. Information concerning current NCCAOM recertification requirements can be found on our website at www.nccaom.org/diplomates/certification-renewal/.

Q11: When I renew my California Acupuncture License will I still have to recertify with the NCCAOM to maintain my NCCAOM certification?

A11: A California license to practice and NCCAOM Oriental Medicine Certification are two completely different processes; one for re-licensure in California and one for recertification with the NCCAOM. Maintaining one does not substitute for the other. To maintain your California license to practice, you must renew your CA license by submitting the California licensure renewal application and meeting all requirements. To maintain your NCCAOM Oriental Medicine Certification you must recertify every four (4) years by submitting the NCCAOM Recertification Application and complete all recertification requirements.

Q12: Will I be able to become licensed in other states if I become NCCAOM Board-Certified through Route 8 for California Licensed Acupuncturists?

A12: This route may or may not allow successful CA Route applicants who become NCCAOM Diplomates to apply for licensure in other states. Licensure requirements vary from state to state; therefore, it is important to contact the state licensing board before applying for licensure. Some states require that candidates for state licensure send their NCCAOM exam results, while other states only require demonstration of NCCAOM Certification; therefore, the NCCAOM cannot guarantee portability to practice in any other state for CA Route applicants. For details on each state's regulatory requirements for licensure as an acupuncturist, please see the interactive NCCAOM State Regulatory Map. If, after achieving NCCAOM certification through Route 8, you want to complete the NCCAOM Board Exams to become licensed in other states, please email caroute@thenccaom.org.

Q13: If I become certified through the NCCAOM CA Route why can't I go to any other state that requires NCCAOM certification and/or exams and get a license to practice?

A13: The California Acupuncture Board (CAB), CA Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA) Office of Professional Examination Services (OPES) performed a comparative analysis of the CA Acupuncture Examination (CALE) to the NCCAOM modular exams to ensure that the NCCAOM is testing to all the entry level competencies collectively with the Foundations of Oriental Medicine, Biomedicine, Acupuncture with Point Location and the Chinese Herbology Exams as part of their research to determine whether they will accept the passing of the NCCAOM national certification exams as one of the regulatory requirements for competency to become licensed in California as an acupuncturist. All states, other than California, that regulate acupuncture use the NCCAOM modular exams as part of their licensure process.

The NCCAOM never conducted a comparative analysis to determine if the CALE meets the NCCAOM entry level competencies required to become a National Board-Certified Acupuncturists. Since the NCCAOM's entry level competency exams are broken down into specific topic modules; Foundations of Oriental Medicine, Acupuncture with Point Location, Biomedicine, and Chinese Herbology, a candidate for certification must pass each exam module independently to become certified. The CALE is a single comprehensive examination that contains domains of foundations, acupuncture, biomedicine and Chinese herbology; therefore, an individual can fail any of the individual domains and pass the exam overall to become a California licensed acupuncturist.

For this reason, the states rely on the NCCAOM modular exams to ensure protection of the public and why the NCCAOM cannot guarantee that any state will accept Diplomates who achieved certification through the new CA Route, which does not require any of the NCCAOM modular exams, to obtain a license to practice.

Q14: Why don't the CA Route applicants have to take any NCCAOM exams to become NCCAOM certified in Oriental Medicine?

A14: At the February 26, 2016 California Acupuncture Board (CAB) Meeting, the CA Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA) Office of Professional Examination Services (OPES) provided their commissioned report, Review of the National Certification Commission for Acupuncture and Oriental Medicine Examinations within the CAB Board Meeting Agenda Materials. The purpose of the OPES review was to evaluate the suitability of the NCCAOM examinations as part of the requirements for licensure as an acupuncturist in California.

The OPES Team found that the procedures used to establish and support the validity and defensibility of the NCCAOM examination program components (a) occupational/job analysis, (b) exam development, (c) passing scores, (d) test administration, (e) examination performance, and (f) test security procedures, meet professional guidelines and technical standards outlined in the California Business and Professions Code section 139 and Standards for Educational and Psychological Testing developed jointly by the AERA, APA, and NCME. Additionally, OPES convened a panel of licensed California acupuncturists to serve as subject-matter experts (SMEs) to review the content of each of the four NCCAOM examinations and to compare this content with the test plan for the California Acupuncture Licensure Examination (CALE), as based on the 2015 California Acupuncture Occupational Analysis (OA) performed by OPES. The results of the review by the SMEs indicated that the NCCAOM examinations are congruent with assessing many of the general areas of entry-level California acupuncture practice, e.g., acupuncture treatment, herbal therapy, diagnostic impressions, etc.

Although an equivalency study was conducted by California (as stated above), the NCCAOM never conducted a comparative analysis of the CALE exam for this time limited NCCAOM eligibility route; therefore, this was not a two-way study. Also, Individuals who passed the CALE after January 12, 2020 are not eligible because the examination content outlines used for the comparative analysis were no longer valid when the NCCAOM began to administer the 2020 certification exams based on the 2017 Job Analysis.

All states, other than California, that regulate acupuncture use the NCCAOM modular exams as part of their licensure process. The NCCAOM exams are even recognized by the Federal government as evidenced by the Veteran's Administration adoption of the NCCAOM Board-Certified Acupuncturists who took the NCCAOM modular exams. All states, except CA, rely on the NCCAOM modular exams to ensure protection of the public.

Q15: Why is the CA Route open only to CA licensed Acupuncturists and not licensed acupuncturists in other states?

A15: California is the only state that administers its own comprehensive licensure examination that covers the same domain areas as the Oriental Medicine Certifications examinations. The CA Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA) Office of Professional Examination Services (OPES) initiated and paid for a review to evaluate the suitability of the NCCAOM examinations as part of the requirements for licensure as an acupuncturist in California. As a result of this review conducted jointly by OPES staff psychometricians and two additional external psychometric experts working as independent consultants (as part of the OPES Team) it was determined that NCCAOM examinations are congruent with assessing many of the general areas of entry-level California acupuncture practice, e.g., acupuncture treatment, herbal therapy, diagnostic impressions, etc. Currently no other state has an independent licensure exam to be able to undertake this type of endeavor.

Q16: What are the benefits of becoming NCCAOM certified?

A16: Becoming an NCCAOM National-Board Certified Acupuncturist has many benefits to include:

- Be eligible to apply for jobs that require NCCAOM certification.
- Have the ability to work with the Veterans Health Administration (VHA), who now requires NCCAOM Board-Certification.
- Have consumers and professionals find you in the NCCAOM's Find a Practitioner
- Have insurance companies and employers verify your certification status through the NCCAOM Registry
- Be promoted as a NCCAOM National-Board Certified Acupuncturists to the media and public through national public educational campaign.
- Be promoted by the NCCAOM Advocacy team who are advancing NCCAOM certification at federal and state levels.
- Create a FREE Website from ChiOnline and access discounted Frames for displaying your NCCAOM certificate of certification.
- Receive issues of the NCCAOM newsletter The Diplomat: E-news You Can Use and NCCAOM Advocacy Update
- Join NCCAOM as a Volunteer & serve on a committee, panel or taskforce with your peers.
- Be eligible for reduced fees for services offered by NCCAOM and its strategic partners